6. PUBLIC QUESTION TIME

QT68/24 – Dean Hurlston

Question

What is the approximate cost per public Council meeting for Council and staff meals, refreshments and beverages, if applicable?

Answer

Evan King, Chief Executive Officer, responded that for the 2023/24 financial year, Council spent $17,365 on meals. There are 4 meetings a month: two briefings, one Planning Delegated Committee meeting, and one Council meeting. $17,365 divided by 41 meetings means the average cost per meeting is $423. Generally, there are 20 meals provided for Councillors and staff, which works out at about $21.18 per meal.

QT69/24 – Merle Hathaway

Question

Buninyong Botanic Gardens – they're state heritage listed and Council plans to remove 100 trees permanently from the middle section of the gardens, despite their own recommendation from the context report (Council commissioned this). Reconstruction of a new dam wall will have detrimental impacts on the cultural heritage significance of the Buninyong Botanic Gardens. So my question is, has Council seriously considered any other options since the first consultation of 2019 when we were shocked to be presented with this current plan?

Answer

Bridget Wetherall, Director Infrastructure and Environment, responded that it has been a long journey with the Gong Dam wall and the reports date back to 2012. In 2017, of most note, there was a State Government investigation into small dams across the state, of which the Gong Dam was part of the investigation. The purpose of that investigation was to determine the risk posed potentially by small dams. The risk was identified with the Gong Dam in a number of ways – the potential for overtopping, the potential for slope instability (there are steep slopes on upstream and downstream batters), potential for overtopping due to small capacity outlet works that regularly get blocked, and potential for 'piping' (basically, a small trickle of water becoming a larger flow of water through a poorly compacted layer between the foundation and the embankment). They were some of the risks that were identified. Because of that, the City of Ballarat undertook some concept design works with GHD which addressed, as were required, the small dams safety requirements to mitigate the risk to downstream residents and to manage those risks. From that, officers have consulted numerous times with various stakeholders, including the Friends Group, the downstream school, and the downstream residents who may be impacted by any overtopping. There was a peer review of the design as well and it has supported the design that is in place.

Question

Given the poor record of genuine discussion and consultation, will Council look at its consultation processes? Over 2,000 people have now signed petitions, so obviously there is not community consensus on this.

Answer

Bridget Wetherall, Director Infrastructure and Environment, responded that, as stated, officers have undertaken significant consultation over the past five years and, while there is a petition, it doesn't remove the risk that Council has a duty of care to manage and mitigate. There is a concept design that has been peer reviewed. To go down any other process, and she will be directed by Council if that is the preference, it will take significant cost and significant time and resources to come up with potentially a different option. And all the while, the risk remains.

RESOLUTION:

That Council extends public question time in accordance with section 3.7.1 of the City of Ballarat Governance Rules.

QT70/24 – Frank WilliamsQuestion

My questions relate to Pioneer Park. Many of the Councillors may not know the location of Pioneer Park, but it's in Giot Drive off Gillies St in Yuille. Three background points before my two questions: Pioneer Park was established as a bicentennial park with grants and funding from the former Shire of Wendouree, very significant development by the former Shire of Wendouree, now part of the City of Ballarat. A feature of this park is the tree plantings and concrete plinths with bronze plaques recognising every Councillor from the former Shire but only four Mayors from the City of Ballarat. So, my question is, will this Council recognise all former Mayors of the City of Ballarat in Pioneer Park?

Answer

Evan King, Chief Executive Officer, responded that it's an incredibly popular park that he drives past on a regular basis and see lots of people using that park. He would like to take that question on notice and have a look at ensuring that past Mayors of the City of Ballarat are recognised. It is incredibly important that their service to the community is recognised, and he'd be more than happy to take that on board and have a look at it.

Question

There are two rectangular garden plantings in this park. The rest of the park is beautifully maintained, but these gardens have a few flowering species but are overgrown with weeds. So, my second question relates to parks and gardens. Will parks and gardens staff inspect the garden beds and the plantings and plant more appropriate species like flowering shrubs rather than flowers?

Answer

Evan King, Chief Executive Officer, responded that officers are more than happy for the parks and gardens team to go down to Pioneer Park and have a look at the conditions of those beds and if there are more appropriate plantings then officers would be more than happy to consider them to ensure that that park is kept to a high standard, as the community would expect.

QT71/24 – Lenore StoddartQuestion

We've recently been advised, and in this meeting, that they're going to look at having to close some portion of the Airport Road in order to use the runway that's been funded for. But Liberator Drive, I understand, is not yet finished. So, my question is when was a consultation with the people that live out in that area undertaken? Because I live out in that area and we were not consulted about the time frames concerned.

Answer

Bridget Wetherall, Director Infrastructure and Environment, responded that at the June 24 Council meeting, a resolution to commence the appropriate statutory process to discontinue the identified portion of Airport Road was passed. As a result of that, then the process was undertaken. The statutory process only requires community consultation to be undertaken through a public advert and that was placed in the Ballarat Times and on the City of Ballarat website on Friday the 16 of August. No submissions either supporting or against the proposal were received. That is the process that's required to be undertaken.

Natalie Robertson, Director Development and Growth, added that if Council accepted the officer's recommendation tonight, there is a further consultation process that will occur. The official state body will do the further consultation. She would like to reassure residents that this is the process that is giving notice because Airport Road won't close or truncate (it's currently open) until Liberator Drive is ready to be used. Council is going through this process in anticipation that when it opens up the runway, you won't be able to cross Airport Road and that the intention of Liberator Drive for the last 12-14 years is to be the alternative, so that you will be able to go down Airport Road if you're coming from the west and you have to turn into Liberator Drive because the airport runway will have extended and the BWEZ development that was adopted in 2012 takes up that land as part of that industrial development. To reassure people, Airport Road won't close until Liberator Drive is complete, and the works are underway for that. This is just the process to get to the steps to formally be allowed to officially truncate or close Airport Road.

Question

So, we have the Council's undertaking that we won't be redirected via any other means of accessing the rest of Ballarat? Because Airport Road is closed and Liberator Drive is not finished yet.

Answer

Natalie Robertson, Director Development and Growth, responded that that is the intent and officers have been working closely with RDV [Regional Development Victoria] to get that Liberator Drive completed, because Airport Road cannot be closed until Liberator Drive is accessible for people who would otherwise use Airport Road.
